

ENDORSEMENT: Fraternal Order of Police and National Latino Peace Officers Association Back Brough for Mayor

Denver, CO – Today, the Denver Sheriff Lodge 27 of the Fraternal Order of Police and the National Latino Peace Officers Association endorsed Kelly Brough to be Denver’s next mayor, citing her commitment to public safety and her understanding of the “importance of the partnership between city workers and the elected leadership of the city.”

The endorsements come on the heels of yesterday’s endorsement from the Denver Police Protective Association (PPA).

“We endorsed Kelly based on her views and commitment to provide better public safety to the citizens of Denver,” said Mike Jackson, president of the Denver Sheriff Lodge 27 of the Fraternal Order of Police. “We know she’ll work to improve and maintain better relations between law enforcement officers and the community by creating dialogue with Denver employees in developing solutions to the challenges facing this community. Kelly understands the importance of the partnership between city workers and the elected leadership of the city.”

“On behalf of the Colorado chapters of the National Latino Peace Officers Association and our members, we are honored to offer our support and endorsement to Kelly Brough for Denver mayor,” said Reyes Trujillo, Denver Police officer and state president of the National Latino Peace Officers Association. “Her vision and commitment to diversity and fair treatment of every person in the community exemplifies the kind of mayor Denver deserves and will get with Kelly. Our mission is to reduce juvenile delinquency by mentoring to steer youth toward success and stability. We also endeavor to bridge the gap between the Latino community and law enforcement. Our association spans the United States including Alaska and Puerto Rico.”

The Denver Sheriff Lodge is part of the Colorado Fraternal Order of Police and the National Fraternal Order of Police. The Fraternal Order of Police is the largest law enforcement organization in the country and in Colorado, as well as the oldest Law Enforcement Organization in the country. The National Latino Peace Officers Association is a national fraternal organization and represents active and retired officers of the Denver Police and Sheriffs.

“I’m honored and encouraged by the support of these groups who work to keep Denver safe,” Kelly Brough said. “Together I know we can find ways to serve and protect our communities while holding our officers accountable. There are big challenges ahead and it’s going to take courage and trust to rebuild relationships and make our city a safer place where residents can live, work, and raise a family.”
